PROFILE

Beginner in cybersecurity, currently exploring C programming and basic ethical hacking.

Learning purely out of curiosity and the urge to understand how things really work under the hood.

Planning to build solid fundamentals, get hands-on with labs and CTFs, and see how far I can push my skills over the next few years. Here mainly to learn, follow people who inspire me, and document my progress.

VISION

My vision is to become a world-class cybersecurity professional, mastering both defensive and offensive technologies to fight cybercrime at the highest level. I aspire to build an organization that provides advanced security solutions while protecting women and children from digital and real-world exploitation. Alongside this, I aim to create a safe ecosystem where survivors can rebuild their lives with dignity and independence. I believe in combining technology, leadership, and social responsibility to make the digital world a safer place. Ultimately, I want to prove that a determined woman can break barriers, redefine strength, and lead with impact.
